Full Truckload (FTL) and Less –Than - Truckload (LTL)

Full Truckload (FTL) carriers deliver a large amount of cargo, usually enough to fill an entire semi-trailer, to one destination. An advantage to FTL is that freight is not handled in route.

Less-than-truckload (LTL) is the transportation of relatively small freight. Typically, LTL carriers collect freight from various shippers and consolidate that freight onto enclosed trailers for delivery. An advantage to using an LTL carrier is that a shipment may be transported for a portion of the cost of employing an entire truck and trailer for an exclusive shipment.

If you have a product that needs to be shipped, we have the ability to fulfill your needs with either FTL or LTL transportation.
